Three types of subscription are available to Microcom's Space Newsfeed. All registered users receive a weekly email newsletter - sent every Sunday - providing headlines of all stories from the previous week and linking to the individual news items on the Space Newsfeed website. You will receive login details allowing you to access the stories on the website.

The Space Newsfeed website is updated continuously throughout the week and by checking on the latest news either on the website itself, or in RSS feeds, you can access news stories as they are published on the website.

Individual Subscription: This subscription option allows a single registered user to access Space Newsfeed online.

Corporate Subscription: With this subscription option, up to ten registered users from a single organisation can access Space Newsfeed online.

Premium Corporate Subscription: With this subscription option, an unlimited number of registered users from a single organisation can access Space Newsfeed online. We will also provide you with your own customised email newsletter every week, optimised for your own organisation's needs as an html email, or as a Word, pdf or odf document. If you choose to receive the newsletter as a document, this can be headlines only or as full text articles. Headline only newsletters are fully linkable to the news items on the Space Newsfeed website. Full text newsletters are stand alone documents with each news item on a separate page.
